For the cost, it's almost as cheap as printing your own, except that this comes ready-to-go, complete with double-sided pages! It's exactly what it claims to be - manuscript paper for bass tablature (as opposed to standard music notation). All bassists should own this so they can create their own exercises, riffs, lines, or whatever.

Went to several music stores no one had it so I came to , since I have started studying the bass I need to write out the notes to help me learn, pick up the fret board and tab reading, its a must for all bass players

Don't know why it's like $2 more than the guitar tab book or $3 more than the wide staff manuscript paper. Gets the job done though. Supposedly used for notation but i'll tab it out since i'm a scrub.
